

Christopher P. Doyle is an Aviation Safety Inspector, Avionics, with the Federal Aviation Administration since August 2010. He is a 35 year USAF/Reserve retired Avionics maintenance technician /supervisor. He holds a Bachelors of Art degree from Westfield State University, May 2000. He is a member of the American Society of Aviation Artist and a member of the Air Force Art Program at the Pentagon. In addition to his ASI duties, he acts as the Flight Standards District Office; Unmanned Aerial Systems point of contact for integrating potential operators into the realm of Title 14 of the Code of Federal Regulations (14 CFR) Part 107 and the safe, lawful operation of unmanned Aerial Systems within the National Aerospace System (NAS), be they; Modelers, Civil or Public use operators.